
Help. Seriously.

Posted by Mark P - 2008/08/28 21:01

This is kind of a plea from the depths.

I've lived near Ipswich for a year since relocating from the midlands. I'm 41 and RPG's (mainly D&D) were a huge part of my life.

Try as I might, I can't find a group down here that's mature, reasonably serious, and willing to accept a new player or DM.

If there's anyone out there (anyone?) who might have a space in a game anywhere in Suffolk, or any players who'd like to make an old DM very happy by letting me run for them, please, please let me know. I run a good game. (With effects by ILM. I kid you not.)

Love to hear from anyone who doesn't think I'm too sad/needy/old, maybe meet up at the con and drink beer, let me kick your *ss at Magic, shoot the breeze, roll some dice... you know the drill.

Say hello?

Mark P
AKA The Evil DM

Re:Help. Seriously.

Posted by Kelvin - 2008/08/29 13:37

Hi Mark

We have a small group that meets every Monday evening to play a little D&D. We're all 40 somethings although the question of how seriously we take it I guess is a matter of opinion. Due to relocation we've just lost a player so there's definitely a vacancy and it may be worth you coming along for a couple of sessions to see if we're compatible.

If you happen to be at Gencon then come along to the Runik Games stand in the Trade Hall and say hello - alternatively if you pop into Runik Games anytime in Norwich Road, Ipswich then you meet Symon (he's probably the most strange of the group).

Otherwise we'll see you at Ludicrus!

Kelvin

Re:Help. Seriously.

Posted by kalten - 2008/08/30 16:45

Failing having fun with Kelvin and the lads, I am looking for someone to take the role of DM for my gaming club (the White Eagles).

We only meet every other Saturday night in Hadleigh, but with the new version of D&D just out there is a lot of interest. I'm too busy to run more than my own campaign with my local lads, and I also play in another campaign... So, if you're interested I have a space that you could fill quite nicely too :)

If you want to contact me directly send one of those little mails of electronic-ness to kalten_siduri at the mail of hotness dotting the com :)

Better still visit www.gowe.co.uk/wegc/default.htm

to be fair - that also goes for anyone else that wants a local gaming club of nutters to go to :)

Re:Help. Seriously.

Posted by Mark P - 2008/08/31 12:02

I've been to Runik and met Simon - and I'd love to come along.

Thanks very much for the invite.

When can I come, and where can I meet you?

Mark P

=====

Re:Help. Seriously.

Posted by kalten - 2008/08/31 12:17

Hi mark - Were you talking to both Kelvin and I, or just Kelvin...it seems from your post that it would be directed to Kelvin.
:laugh:

=====

Re:Help. Seriously.

Posted by Mark P - 2008/08/31 12:48

Well actually...

I sent both you top gentlemen PM's as I realised my post might cause confusion...

Have a look at that and let me know!

Cheers!

=====

Re:Help. Seriously.

Posted by kalten - 2008/08/31 12:54

ahhh...going to check the PM now :)

=====