
Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by Berethor - 2007/11/17 17:38

Hi everyone!

I wanted to get a discussion going regarding board games.
What are your most memorable board games from your youth?
What game do you love playing now?

What would you like to see comeback or a whole new concept?

Lets hear everyones thoughts and get some discussions on additional house rules added and opinions on some games.

If ya wanna find out about a board game before you buy it? Use this thread and ask the people who have played them
:laugh:

=====

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by severindrax - 2008/02/03 18:59

Heroquest for the win. the game that started it all for me (and many others), incidentally on the lookout for a new (unpainted,complete) set, preferably the advanced quest version.....

new game-wise, settlers of catan, twilight imperium, WoW, battlelore, zombies!!!, and too many others to list.... good place to check out new games is www.boardgamegeek.com

=====

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by pawatt - 2008/03/03 12:56

Favourite board game of recent years has to be Ticket to Ride. Who thought trains could be so cut throat.

Still get a giggle out of Zombies.

Also found my old copy of Mertwigs Maze, so cheap looking now and yet so classic. Ah good times

=====

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by Myandar - 2008/03/05 21:34

Favourite board game for me is Talisman.

It's gonna be hard to beat and I've just heard that Fantasy Flight Games have bought the rights to produce both Talisman, it's expansions and the Dark Heresy RPG from Games Workshop.

So it looks like an effective games company will now be producing one of the best board games ever devised! :)

=====

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by grimthorn - 2008/09/19 09:47

You've got to love the WOW board game, though it does go on abit, but the No1 board game of all time's got to be Blood Bowl (yes it is a board game, you play it on a board!)

=====

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by Kemui - 2008/09/20 08:10

Can't beat a bit of talisman. Although Risk, Heroquest, Hotel and Monopoly have to right up there as games that carry fond memories.

Doubt it counts as a board game, but Crossbows & catapults was pretty cool (it was found in the boardgame section of toymaster...) Never actually knew what the rules were, but it was good fun firing plastic disks at each other....

:laugh:
- Those were the days.

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by kalten - 2008/09/25 18:30

Talisman is the greatest fantasy board game ever made full stop! :)

I have to agree with Grim here...Blood Bowl is fantastic...I would not have been playing it for 20 years if it was not!

Still...recently I'm loving things like the WoW board game and Doom...how many frags can Satan get....?

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by severindrax - 2008/09/26 13:31

"i'm the devil i can do what i want,
whatever i got i'm gonna flaunt,
there's never been a game o' doom i've ever lost,

i can't wait to take kalt back to hell,
i'm gonna fill him with my hot demon gel,
make him squeal like a scarlet pimpernel...."

apologies to JB and KG :)

have to throw twilight imperium into the mix here. very tasty game that one. even if kalt builds too many war suns to be healthy...

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by kalten - 2008/10/01 10:55

Anyone played Wings of War out there?
It's great fun!
I mean seriously fun!

Sev and myself have been working on a way to use the Star Wars minis with the rules set - we think we have some good stuff already (I say we, but mostly he!) :)

Get it, play it, love it!

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by Shaun - 2008/10/01 13:51

Had a demo of it at Gencon '07 and loved it, but haven't managed to play it since! Next year I think we need shifts on the Admin desk so I get some time off to play the games myself too!

=====

Re:Board Games - Past, present and future

Posted by Myandar - 2008/10/01 15:10

Plus from next week you'll be able to buy it from Runik Games! :)

Probably gonna have start playing on a Friday night as well! I'll try and persuade Jon/Alex to bring their Star Wars version down to the club when they've finished it!

=====