
Introductions

Posted by Rosie - 2008/01/17 22:01

Hi all,

Thought I'd try to get the forums a bit more active with an introductions thread.

Here's the idea: You tell us what you play, where you play it, what you'd like to play if you get the chance, and maybe a little about yourself, and hopefully someone else will look in and tell you where you can have a go. Maybe make some new friends as well.

I'll start us off. Some of you already know me, but there are plenty of others I don't know.

I play Warmachine over at Bury Wargames, and any random games going, such as Munchkin, Talisman, etc. at FNM in Ipswich.

I also play D&D and World of Darkness with some friends in and around Ipswich.

I don't get as much of a chance to play as I'd like at the moment since I'm away at Uni, but when I'm back home I'm always up for a spot of gaming :)

Whose next?

=====

Re: Introductions

Posted by FTW - 2008/01/22 19:30

A certain lack in posts i see:dry:
well i'll go first.

Hi im Josh, and im a devotee of FNM at ipswich. I also play at the lesser known coddenham games club.

I went to Bury wgc last time and realy liked and am going again this week so hope to be a regular.

I play MTG, warmachine/Hordes and the odd game of Munchkin and other miscellanious dodahs and oddities.:)

lets see more posts!

laterz

FTW

=====

Re: Introductions

Posted by Knightwish - 2008/01/22 21:49

hey all

im pete most who go to the friday club in ipswich we know me

but i play magic and WOW i try and class myself as a good magic player lol (well a so so player) i have just won the morningtide pre-release :) soo im happy

=====

Re: Introductions

Posted by NekoAngel - 2008/01/23 11:07

rofl pete when was the last time u played wow then lol id really like to know...

laters

=====

Re: Introductions

Posted by Kelvin - 2008/01/23 17:48

OK I suppose I'd better practise what I preach and add my intro...

I've been playing RPGs for about 25 years starting with the early version of D&D. These days I play most Monday evenings with a small group (which contains most of the Ludicrus organisers) - I'm somewhat alarmed to realise that we've been meeting weekly for about 15 years now! Sorry I don't make it to any of the local clubs but when you get to my age there tends to be other commitments like work and kids!:S

As well as D&D we've had brief encounters with Cthulhu and Rolemaster but we seem to always return to old faithful.

I also enjoy board games and have tried a couple of card games in the past (MTG etc.) but it's not really my thing.

I got involved in the organisation of Ludicrus because I've always enjoyed attending the conventions like Gencon and I thought it would be great to have something local so people who aren't able to travel to the bigger events can get a taste of the fun to be had.

I'm looking forward to meeting a lot more of you at the year's Ludicrus - please keep giving us the ideas to make it the event you want.

Cya
:cheer:

Re: Introductions

Posted by Knightwish - 2008/01/23 21:34

i still have some of the cards and im trying to start online lol

Re: Introductions

Posted by NekoAngel - 2008/01/23 21:57

play again at the card club weve got a score to settle lol ill b waitin...

Re: Introductions

Posted by severindrax - 2008/02/03 19:04

i'm jon, and i am an addict.

used to work for GW, then did a stint at Sci-fi (before it became Runik) play wow, magic, star wars miniatures, boardgames, cardgames, collect anything and everything. also spend an unhealthy amount of time on world of warcraft....but then so does bere :P

Re: Introductions

Posted by Shaun - 2008/02/12 23:50

Watchya Folks, another one of the Ludicrus team signing in and saying Hi!

I blame Myandar for getting me into all this (as well as lots of other things :woohoo:). One day he asked if I fancied playing this D&D game with this group of lads and he'd teach me the basics first - Sure I said! I'd hardly call a room with sideways gravity, a greased floor and a spike pit in the centre, the best learning experience but I survived! That weekend I was handed my first real character a 5th level Fighter named LLeorig which I played for many years.

Still playing D&D in the same Monday group as Kelvin and Myandar, with similar dabbles into Rolemaster and Cthulu.

Played MTG in the early days when Sengir Vampires, Dark Rituals and Plague Rats were popular :ohmy:

Looking forward to meeting you all in person at the big event :laugh:

Shaun.

Re: Introductions

Posted by Myandar - 2008/03/05 21:37

I remember that one ... S1 White Plume Mountain ... one of my all time favourites! :)

Another Gygax great!

Re: Introductions

Posted by Dismal_faliure - 2008/03/06 23:23

Heya! I'm Matt, a regular loiterer in Runik Games that plays Magic the gathering, Warmachine, Dungeons and Dragons, and Warhammer if I must.

For clubs, I attend a club down in Woodbridge, and I'm going to start going to Bury wargaming as soon as I can. I need to get some steam-mileage out of my Cygnar!

I just thought I ought to pop in and say hi!

Yours

Matt (The one with the Megrim deck)

PS. Explaining the user-name...Well, there was a "Dismal faliure" magic card next to me as I chose my user name...I still even managed to spell "Failure" Wrong to, I guess that's the god's of dice telling me to call it a night...

Re: Introductions

Posted by jaz000 - 2008/04/14 19:56

It all started with D&D, like for a lot of people, the red box basic set and the blue box expert being memorable. I played a lot of other games (inc rolemaster) before giving up when I had to start working for a living!

Then I had that typical mid-life crysis and returned to gaming only to find that "role playing" and "game" now had a singular dictionary entry that was not the sum of the two individual terms!

I have been running a BECMI game on and off for the last six months with some sucess at re-creating the old magic, but alas I know the hardcore 3E gamer is getting bored ...